

Comcast expects us to lay down and die.

So they can keep jacking up the price of cable networks they own.
Charging you a premium price for a slower modem. And passing on third-party phone, calling it "digital."

Well, you know what we say?

Ain't gonna happen.

RCN is here to stay – offering you more bundled services at a greater competitive value than ever before. No, this doesn't exactly make us popular with "the big guys," but we didn't invent the bundled telecommunications business for them.

We did it for you.

Because we think you're worth fighting for.
